What should I know already?	What will I know by the end of the unit?
<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • Identify our own special people. • Explain what makes them special to us and why they are important in our lives. • Describe the different ways our special people care for us. • Recognise how we can care for them in return. • Identify an adult I can talk to if I'm worried/unhappy about someone in my family. • Know about Childline and how to contact them. 	<ul style="list-style-type: none"> • How families differ from each other (including that not every family has the same family structure, e.g. single parents, same sex parents, step-parents, blended families, foster and adoptive parents). • How common features of positive family life often include shared experiences, e.g. celebrations, special days or holidays. • How people within families should care for each other and the different ways they demonstrate this. • How to ask for help or advice if family relationships are making them feel unhappy, worried or unsafe.

Vocabulary
Family	There are many different definitions of family , such as 'a fundamental social group in society typically consisting of one or two parents and their children ' or 'a group of two or more people who are related to each other by blood, adoption, marriage, step, or fostering, and may or may not dwell in the same house.
Single parent	Single-parent families are families with children under age 18 headed by a parent who is widowed or divorced and not remarried, or by a parent who has never married.
Same sex parents	LGBT parenting refers to lesbian, gay , bisexual, and transgender (LGBT) people raising one or more children as parents or foster care parents .
Step family	A stepfamily is formed by the marriage or long-term cohabitation of two individuals, when one or both have at least one child from a previous relationship living part-time or full-time in the household. The individual who is not the biological parent of the child or children is referred to as the stepparent.

Foster parent	Foster parents are people who officially take a child into their family for a period of time, without becoming the child's legal parents . The child is referred to as their foster child .
Adoptive parents	An adoptive parent is someone who provides a permanent home to a child or children through a legal process. ... Becoming an adoptive parent comes with all the joys, heartache, laughter, frustration, responsibilities and rights that a natural or biological parent- child relationship brings.
Blended parents	A blended family is one where the parents have children from previous relationships but all the members come together as one unit.
